The Protected By Allah

Sufyan was a self-made young man. [means:] He started poor, but he worked hard for years and years until he established a large food company, and it began to bring him profits (money) like milk, and day after day Sufyan became one of the wealthy!

Unfortunately, Sufyan forgot the sorrows of the poor and he was deceived by the gold that became abundant in his hands, and his preoccupation became to increase his money and buy more real estate (property) to get richer and see the number of his possessions increasing day by day forgetting the needy and the poor in his country..

One day, his young son Kareem came to him with a pale face and said to him:

- Father, what I saw today was terrible!.. I saw a skinny boy begging, and I saw a man beating him to get him more money!

The father replied coldly: " Of course, son. This is a poor orphan who has no home to protect him, so he lives with this evil man, and there are many of them. "

The boy answered excitedly:

- Dad, we have a lot of houses, so we can help them!

The father replied with annoyance:

" Let go of him and focus on your studies. If you keep thinking about these people, your head will hurt!"

The boy replied burningly: " And if we leave them, our hearts will ache! ..O father, -as you know- the Prophet (PBUH) told us that believer is not miserly!"

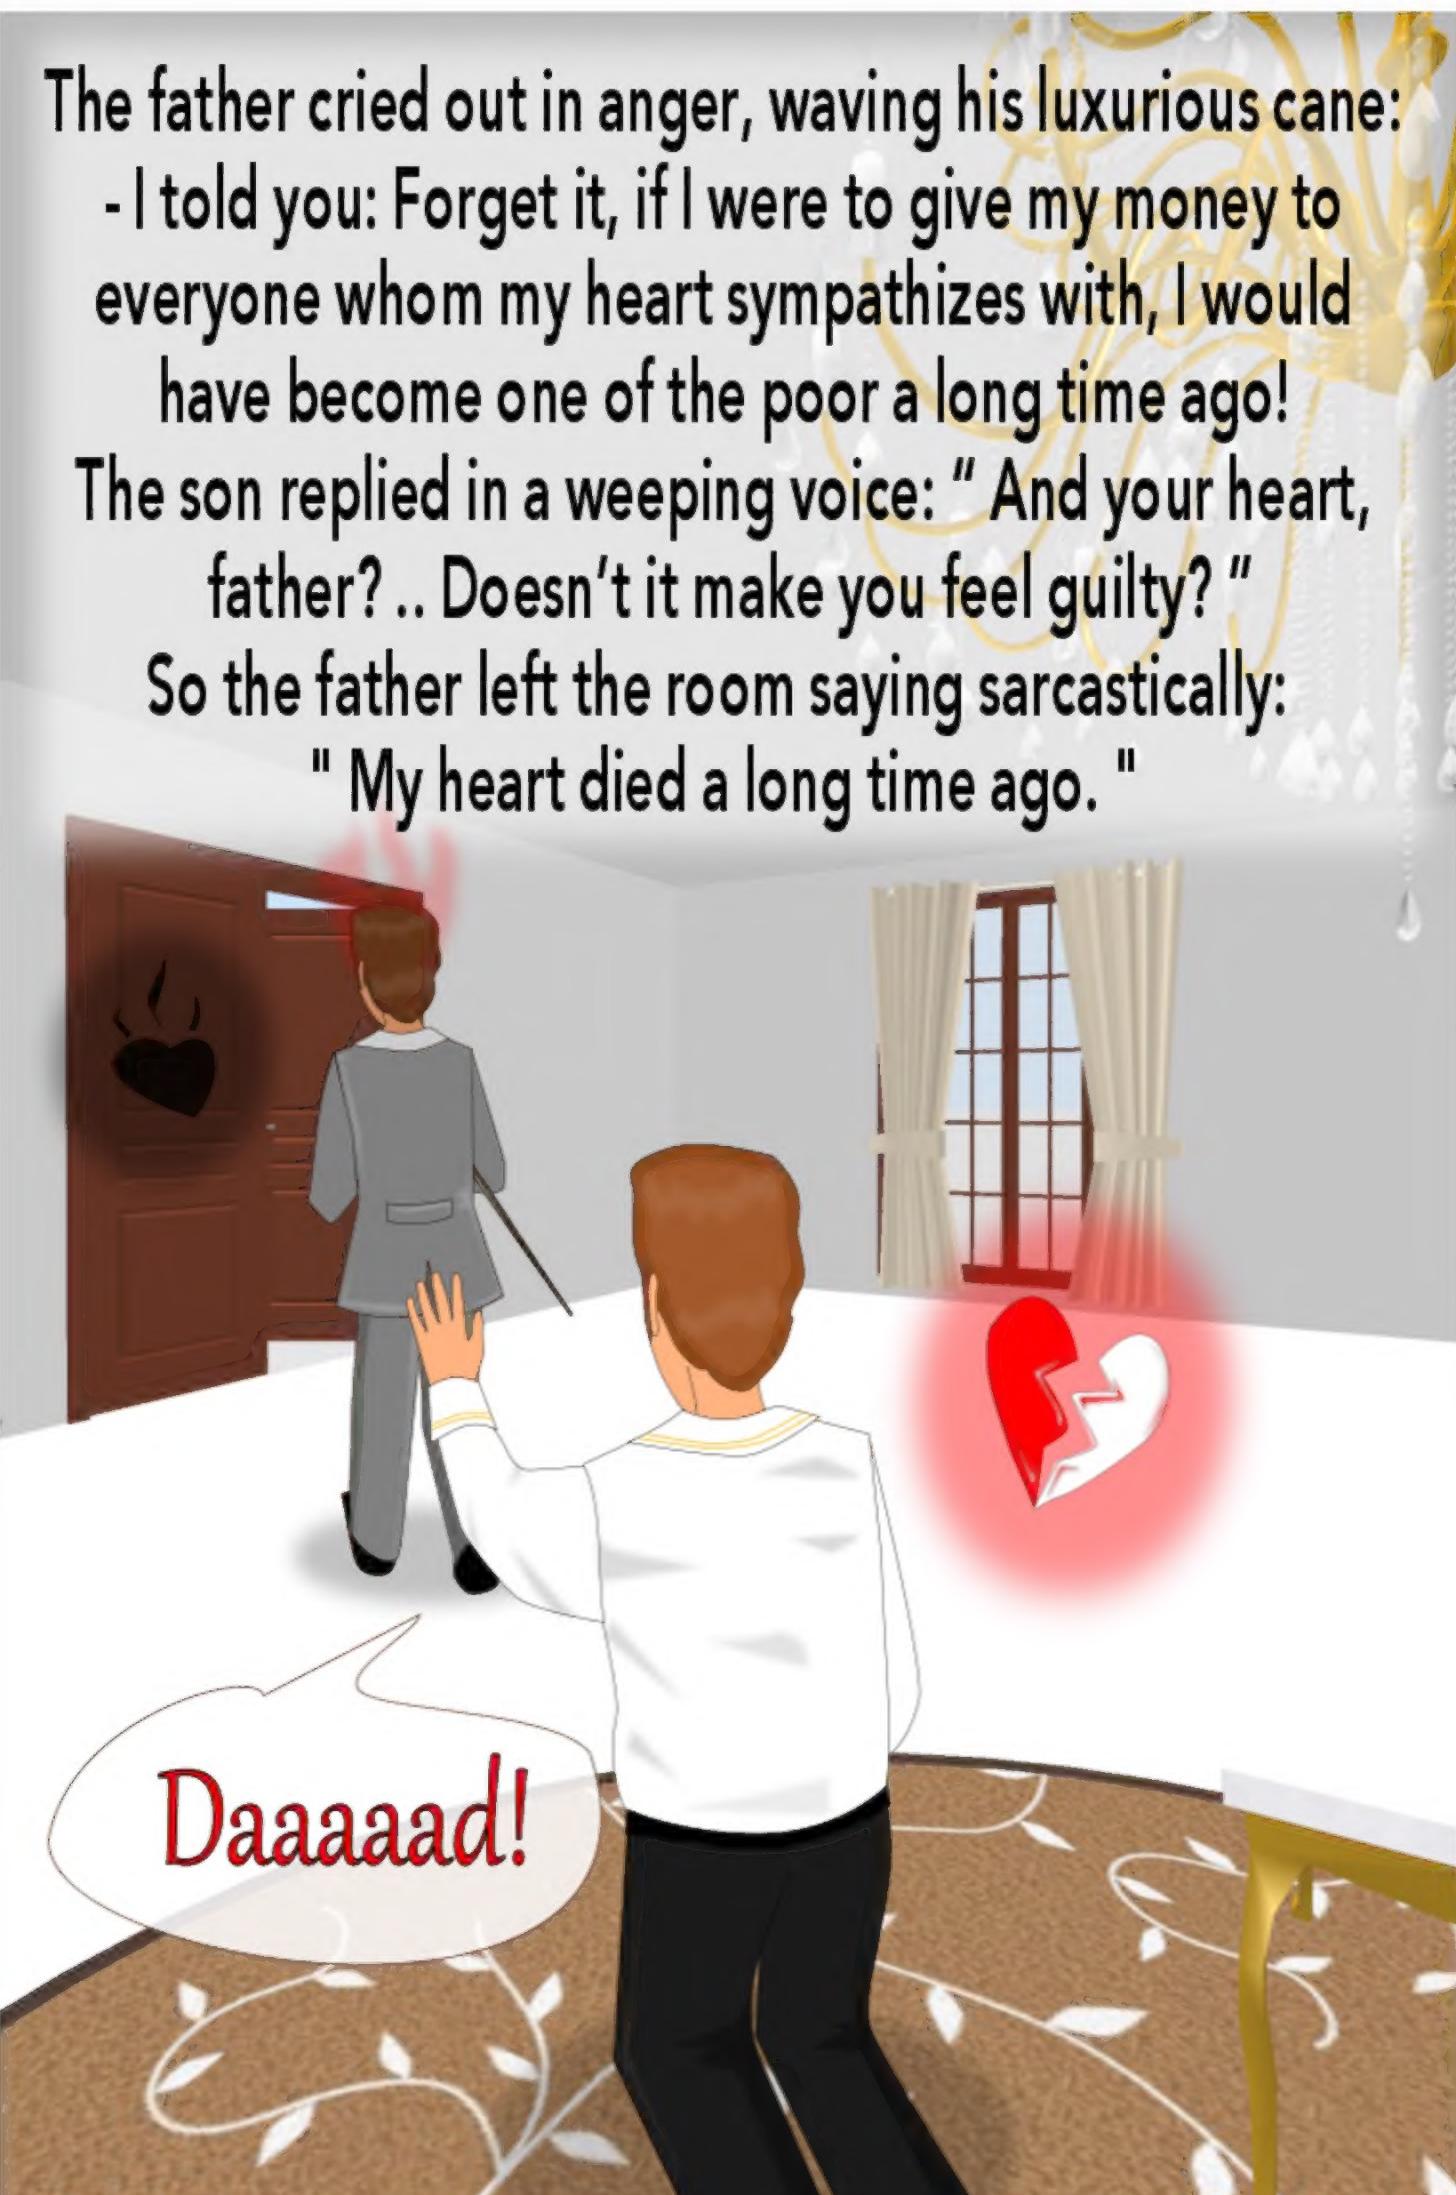

I don't believe!..
Dad says that?!

The father cried out in anger, waving his luxurious cane:

- I told you: Forget it, if I were to give my money to everyone whom my heart sympathizes with, I would have become one of the poor a long time ago!

The son replied in a weeping voice: " And your heart, father? .. Doesn't it make you feel guilty? "

So the father left the room saying sarcastically:
" My heart died a long time ago. "

Daaaaad!

Kareem stood up and wiped away his tears, then he gripped his hand on his chest and raised his head, saying: " Oh Lord, I promise you that from now on I will not silence my compassionate heart not once, so help me - O Allah - so that I can help the poor and fulfill the needs of the needy, thanks to You, O Lord of the worlds! "

My shoe is cut again..

what shall I do?

Since that day, helping the poor became Kareem's preoccupation, so he ate and hid what was left of his delicious food and looked for the poor and gave it to them while he was returning from school with his friends, and day after day his friends admired his idea and began to share with him, bringing food as well and giving it smiling to the first poor person they see!

How will I beat Kareem?
He put whole his money
and the half of his food!

There!

Tomorrow, I'll bring my banana!

Only one candy?!.
Bring such an apple!

And because Kareem was the one who originally had the idea, his heart advised him to search for good by himself, for Allah's land is vast, and Allah is able to provide for him as he provided for his father, so he searched for himself for a job, and indeed he started working every day and giving the poor his full salary!

A painting-style illustration of a father and son in a traditional Middle Eastern setting. A man in a grey suit and white shirt stands on the left, holding a small cup. He has a speech bubble above him. A young boy in a white shirt and dark trousers stands behind a large brown wooden screen. The background features two tall, thin, golden-colored lamps and two potted plants.

Where have you been so far ?!

But one day, Kareem was late for his work and did not return home on time, which worried his father and drew his attention. As soon as he returned, he asked him what he was doing, and the son answered confidently: "I - my dear father - do an honorable work, so honor my kind heart and feed my hungry loved ones ! "

Don't disturb the neighbors

Honor your parents

Love each other

Give charities

Surprised, the father cried: " You work and feed your loved ones?! What do you say, son? "

Kareem smiled and said: " Dear father, you refused to help the poor because your heart died a long time ago, so I was afraid that my heart would die before I grow up."

So I began to listen to him when he commanded me to do good deeds so that he would remain alive and keep makes me happy with his kind advices that pleases Allah and brings me closer to Him!! "

The father remained silent and bowed his head in shock. He did not know whether he should be angry with his son, or with himself?! Finally, he said angrily:

- What would people say about me now if they found out that you work even though your father is rich?!

.. Did you not think about your father's reputation?!

Kareem smiled and said:

- Yes - my beloved father - I thought about your reputation with Allah, I thought about how you will meet Allah with a dead heart, and how difficult it will be, and therefore I found that it may be a saving argument for you to be the father of a son with a living heart!

My beloved dad,
don't deny yourself to Paradise!

Allah is bigger than money, dad!

Here, the father was surprised and effected, and he could not hold back his tears, so he got up and hugged his young son, saying:

- Well done, my son, you made me discover that my heart did not die when you woke it up now! .. From now on, you will see - oh noble heart - that my heart - the father of yours - is a kind heart that you have never seen!!!

Allah willing, I'll establish a charitable organization and an orphanage!

Allah-u Akbar!..
Finally, we'll be happy!

I'll call it; 'Kareem Orphanage'!

I love you, Dad!

...Done by the Grace of Allah...

《And let not those who [greedily] withhold what Allah has given them of His bounty ever think that it is better for them. Rather it is worse for them, their necks will be encircled by what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection. And to Allah belong the heritage of heavens and the earth. And Allah, with what you do, is [full]
